

Heartthrob by RUX

Hand pumps and seesaw pumps breathe life into a giant inflatable heart at the center of Times Square. Each push of a pump blows air into tubes that fill the balloon structure as well as generate a jolt of light that glows inside the heart. The balloon is designed to leak air at a controlled rate, requiring the work of many to keep it plump.

RUX Design
45-50 30th Street, 7th floor
Long Island City, NY 11101
info@ruxdesign.net